ALHEIT VINEYARDS - WESTERN CAPE, SOUTH AFRICA

“We believe that quality and beauty in wine come from the vineyard alone. The true wonder of wine is revealed when all the nonsense and lies are stripped away. Therefore, we practice simple and careful winemaking: no yeasts, no enzymes, no acidification, no sulphur before ferment, no blocking malo, no new barrels, no fining etc. No manipulation. This is the core principle we adhere to. We cannot in good conscience talk about the importance of place if we’re manipulating the wine. We’re hoping to find the voice of the land, not the mark of the winemaker.”

BOCA is thrilled to partner with Journey's End, united by our shared values with sustainability at the core of our mission. Both BOCA and Journey's End prioritize renewable energy, responsible farming, and uplifting local communities, striving to be a force for good.

Founded in 1995 by the Gabb family, Journey's End is dedicated to sustainably and ethically producing premium wines for every occasion. A key example of their commitment is the 'wonder plants' in pots at your table, which have contributed to the vineyard becoming carbon negative. Journey's End was recognized in The Drinks Business Green Awards 2021, winning both the Ethical Company and Water Management awards.

ABOUT THE MENU COVER

The menu folder is crafted from upcycled leather and recycled broken rails from Journey's End, part of a broader empowerment project in South Africa. The skins are sourced from local farms in the Western Cape, sent to one of the few tanneries in the country for careful treatment. Each hide is graded and curated into a variety of products, supporting small industries in South Africa and strengthening local economies.
